

creative therapy Adelaide

Our purpose is to transform the lives of people through meaningful interactions with the creative arts - music, dance, drama and art - using research-based therapeutic methods that seek to uncover a person's capabilities and grow their potential.

our values

Creativity

Strengths-based

Research-informed

Family-centred

creativity: the way to grow

At Creative Therapy, we are a team of allied health professionals who dream up creative approaches to their roles, which utilise artistic and creative skills. Research-based arts therapies like music therapy are growing in popularity as they become more understood and we believe there is no limit on other allied health therapists drawing on music therapy interventions and literature to work with their participants.

We know the creative arts play a pivotal role in the fabric of human life and for a lot of people, they seem inaccessible. Through offering allied health therapies that focus on utilising the arts, we are opening up a world of expression to people who otherwise viewed music, drama, the visual arts and dance as the pastimes of a talented few.

It is our role to generate ways to help these art forms to re-emerge into the lives of families of children and young people, to provide optimism and new ways of communicating that are fun and generate emotional connection and meaning. Using humans' innate connection with music, drama, dance and art, we recognise first, their strengths in these areas to leapfrog them to build capacity and get closer to their goals.

services

At Creative Therapy, we deliver bespoke therapy programs to children, young people and adults with disability. All our therapists are registered, trained professionals.

We are growing our team and will aim to deliver the following suite of services to our participants by 2022.

Music Therapy

Art Therapy

Drama and Dance Therapy

Physiotherapy

Play Therapy

Occupational Therapy

Speech
Pathology

Music Therapist-
Supported Instrumental Lessons

ECEI Intensive
Therapy Programs

WHY work with us

Be part of developing a new hub for creative arts therapies in beautiful, coastal Adelaide: recently ranked Australia's most liveable city.

Creative Therapy Adelaide is seeking professionals with a passion for enriching people's lives with the creative arts.

You can join a supportive workplace culture that upholds:

- An emphasis on being a research-informed practice that advances our team's creativity and makes what we do effective and fun
- Strengths-based and person-centred therapy that generates meaningful outcomes
- Work-life balance, career progression, professional development and job satisfaction
- Regular supervision and support from peers, senior team members and guest supervisors
- Streamlined operations and processes that eliminate fuss, allowing clinicians to focus on what really matters
- Engagement with local arts culture and community

ALLied Health professional roles

Creative Therapy Adelaide is seeking to recruit music therapists, other creative arts therapists and allied health professionals with arts training to join our team. Casual and part time positions are available, with potential for full time employment in future.

- Your role will be to provide goal-informed services to NDIS participants from the ages 0-65 with the option of specialising in a particular age group or area of interest.
- You will have a willingness to learn about best-practice delivery of NDIS funded services in ECEI, youth and adult populations and seek to facilitate the creative expression of those participants with their life goals in mind.
- You will be willing to work as part of a team (internally and with professionals outside of our organisation) and participate in peer support, team meetings and professional development.

RMTs and creative arts therapists with all levels of experience are welcome to contact us about opportunities with Creative Therapy Adelaide.

New graduates and students that will obtain registration with their regulating body in 2021/2022 are also encouraged to contact us.

opportunities

Early Career Professionals:

- Fully catered for graduate positions available for new graduates that include equipment and resources, mentorship, training and support to meet professional development requirements
- Therapy assistant roles for students of creative arts and allied health bachelor and postgraduate programs, which include training and mentorship
- Offering student placements with Australian universities and accredited creative arts therapy training programs

We are young, but we're growing!

From new graduates, to seasoned professionals: we believe the way to growth is to support one another through peer support and mentoring, amazing professional development and coaching that helps provide our team with the clarity to understand their career progression.

Being a new hub of creativity with a focus on providing high-quality NDIS services, means those wanting to participate in business development opportunities, facilitate specialised projects and cutting edge programs, have the space to do so.

See you on the creative side!

Natalie Oliveri
Director, Creative Therapy Adelaide natalie@creativetherapyadelaide.com.au